The fate of the leader of the Islamic Movement of Nigeria, Sheikh Ibraheem Zakzaky and his wife, lies in the hands of the federal government not the court authority.

It could be recalled that in 2016, a federal high court ordered his unconditional release from jail following a trial, but the government has so far refused to set him free.

But after much effort and protest and domestic and international pressure, the Nigerian court allowed Sheikh Zakzaky and his wife to travel to India for treatment in August 2019, but due to dissatisfaction with the treatment process, security constraints and the lack of trusted doctors, Sheikh Zakzaky and his wife left for Nigeria after spending two days in India.
